

COVID-19 RESPONSE

Island Shores responded to the pandemic in early 2020, initiating protocols that would keep our residents and staff safe. Island Shores remains committed to the protocols put in place by the CDC, DOH, and local authorities because safety is our top priority.

Masks are required for all staff and visitors. Health screens are taken at the door upon arrival for both staff members and visitors. Visitors are welcome and do not need proof of a negative COVID-19 test or vaccination card unless the positive COVID-19 test rate in Staten Island exceeds 5%.

Our staff is equipped with approved cleaning products to ensure the safety of all persons entering the residence. Tables in the dining area are spaced at least six feet apart to allow for social distancing and mitigation of viruses.

To keep our residents active and engaged with as regular a schedule as possible, weekly activities such as exercise classes, Bingo, movie nights, Armchair Travel, and Current Events will continue with COVID-19 safety precautions including social distancing and limited capacity.

We are dedicated to providing up-to-date information on protocols and safety measures to everyone. Therefore, the information above may be changed at anytime as the COVID-19 state and local regulations are updated.
